Default Behavior

When you request a resource without specifying a locale, the API returns all supported localized values for a localized field. In the following example, the `name` field is a localized field.

```
  "faction": {
    "type": "ALLIANCE",
    "name": {
      "en_US": "Alliance",
      "es_MX": "Alianza",
      "pt_BR": "Aliança",
      "de_DE": "Allianz",
      "en_GB": "Alliance",
      "es_ES": "Alianza",
      "fr_FR": "Alliance",
      "it_IT": "Alleanza",
      "ru_RU": "Альянс",
      "ko_KR": "얼라이언스",
      "zh_TW": "聯盟",
      "zh_CN": "联盟"
    }
  }
}
```

Documentation

A locale is specified as a query parameter:

| Type            | Format           | Example       |
|-----------------|------------------|---------------|
| Query Parameter | ?locale={locale} | ?locale=ko_KR |

If you request a resource with the locale query parameter, the API flattens localized fields, only including the value for the requested localization. For example, if the above JSON were requested with ?locale=ko_KR , the response would be:

```
{
  "faction": {
    "type": "ALLIANCE",
    "name": "얼라이언스"
  }
}
```
