

World of Warcraft Media Documents

Media documents help with the discoverability of web assets related to request API resources. Media documents can link to web resources such as web-rendered images, player character renders (like those seen on the World of Warcraft website), and in-game assets (like spell or item icons).

The following example shows the media property present on an Item document, which links to a generic media document. The generic media document contains references to web resources associated with the parent document.

Sample Item Document
